Jump for it

Students at Hale Creek Elementary School "jumped for heart" for approximately three hours Friday. The jump rope marathon was staged to raise money for the American Heart Association. Students from almost every grade participated. Some of the participants decided to be creative with their jumping such as sixth-graders Liesa Gardner and Jessica Marzili (top). Others tried jumping in a line up (right). ANP photos by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Hayti school may close, fewer students is reason

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Hayti Elementary School, in Romulus, may be closed by this time next year causing a series of attendance boundary changes in the school district.

William Bedell, superintendent of schools, announced the possible closing and boundary changes at the Jan. 9 school board meeting.

Decreasing enrollment is being blamed for the proposal.

Hayti, located on Beverly Road, serves 261 children from the northern part of the city.

Even without the closing, Bedell is recommending a series of drastic changes in the school boundaries.

The matter will be discussed at a public hearing at 7 p.m. Jan. 24.

Bedell is proposing a re-grouping of students according to age, instead of geographic location.

Under this system, one school would be devoted to students kindergarten through second grade. Another building would be for third- and fourth-graders, and one would serve fifth- and sixth-graders. Junior and senior high school students would not be affected.

"You become more efficient," said Bedell of the proposed system. "It's an entirely different approach."

Bedell said grouping students by age would prevent "splits," the grouping of two grades in one class. Splits occur when a school serves a large number of students in one grade and a smaller number of students in another.

"It's a weird imbalance," Bedell said.

He added that if one building was devoted to a particular grade, the students would be exposed to more programs geared to their grade level.

Although such a system would require quite a few adjustments, it would not cost the district additional money, according to Bedell. Halecreek and Merriman schools would remain unchanged.

Bedell will form a committee of three school board members and three Romulus citizens to study the proposed system. Committee members would visit communities already practicing this type of system and determine the results.

"It's going to take us time," Bedell said.

Possibility of jail in city disturbs local residents

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Residents, in an informal survey, have offered their feelings about the possibility of a county jail being built in Romulus.

Romulus is one of four communities being considered for the minimum-security facility, and city officials have yet to announce whether or not they are in favor of a jail. A study session on the issue is scheduled for Jan. 24.

Meanwhile, some local residents have already made up their minds about a jail in Romulus.

"I wouldn't like it," said Romulus resident Grace Bowery of Whitehorn Street. "I think we have enough problems in Romulus now without adding offenders."

Bowery added that Romulus has potential for growth in the next few years and she thinks the jail would stand in the way.

"I don't think Romulus needs that (jail) at all. We're up and coming."

Some residents had even stronger feelings on the issue.

"I think we've got enough dirt. We get something like that—it's just more trouble," said James Sexton of Walbash Street.

"I don't want a jail in town. I wouldn't want one in Romulus, New Boston or Belleville," said Belleville resident Matt Myron. He said a jail poses problems for any community that houses it.

Some residents said Romulus poses sufficient challenges with the airport and railroad system. They see the jail as just one more problem.

"I'm very unhappy. I just think we've had enough burdens with the airport and that darned train terminal," said Judy Krupa of Westvale Street. "Come on, give somebody else the jail."

Despite these strong, negative reactions, not all Romulus residents oppose the idea of a county jail in town.

"That would be OK," said

Eleanor Alexander of Avalon. She said she does not foresee any problems with a jail in her community.

"It's all right with me. They've got to put it somewhere," said Paul Filek of Spain Street.

"I don't see any problem with it," commented JoAnn Lincoln of Warman Street. She said she has neutral feelings on the issue.

"Just get some of those people off the street," she added.

Several residents said they are not sure how they feel about a jail, but they believe their opinions would not matter anyhow.

"You couldn't do anything about it anyway," said Charles Beaver of Goddard.

"They're kind of arguing about it," said one Romulus Senior Towers resident, "I don't know what to think about it. They generally build them (jails) where they want them anyway."

Near disaster prevented at Metro

Detroit Metropolitan Airport was the site of two near-misses for one Northwest airliner Friday.

Northwest Flight 345, a Boeing 757, landed at the airport with one wheel missing.

The aircraft landed at approximately 5 p.m. with a great deal of smoke but no injuries.

Apparently, the wheel, which was under the right wing, came off shortly after takeoff from Washington National Airport. Northwest authorities still do not know why the mishap occurred.

Earlier that day, the same aircraft was involved in another mishap. When Flight 345 landed at Detroit Metropolitan Airport at noon, landing gear for the aircraft was smoking. Authorities claim the smoke was due to de-icing fluids sprayed on the landing gear in Washington earlier in the day.

Mayor speaks optimistically about progress

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A reduction in taxes, a boost in development and intentions for her candidacy were among the topics of Mayor Beverly McAnally's speech at the Romulus Chamber of Commerce luncheon Tuesday.

McAnally's speech summarized the progress of Romulus within the past year, along with plans for 1989.

"We operate this city on very few mills," McAnally said.

The city millage rate is 9.2 mills. McAnally attributed a possible future reduction in taxes to increased development and increased land values within the city.

McAnally added that the cost of infrastructure for developments, such as sewage and roads, have been funded by programs such as the Tax Incremented Finance Authority. The development areas are funded by TIFA bonds, and revenue from the areas is earmarked to reimburse the TIFA fund.

"In the coming year, I think you'll find the city holds the line with taxes," McAnally said.

The mayor also discussed the status of city employees. Through a type of "self-rating" process, each city position was evaluated. Increases in wages were based on this process, but, the mayor said, all city workers received a pay increase last year.

"It brought salaries into some sort of parity with other cities of like size," McAnally said.

Another topic of the mayor was the police department. The department has substantially grown since it was formed between 1979 and 1980.

"For a while, it was a real 'Wild West' out there," she said. "Now, it is a most reliable and efficient unit."

McAnally also reminded local business people that a commercial/industrial reassessment is planned for 1989.

"An increased valuation does not necessarily mean increased taxes," she said.

On a positive note, the mayor said plans for the $1 billion Metro Centre project will move forward this year. After numerous attempts, city officials have been assured by the Michigan Department of Transportation that the department will fund construction of an interchange at Venoy and I-94, connecting the north and south sections of town.

The Metro Centre will include offices, hotel/conference centers and a world college.

In addition, plans are moving forward to improve the area of Wickham and Smith roads. The plans include a fitness trail, sidewalks and landscaping.

"Not only will the appearance along here be improved, it will be much more inviting," McAnally said.

Additional upcoming development projects include a $12 million industrial project near Goddard and Wayne Roads, a $10 million automotive development near the I-275 industrial corridor and a $20 million office/warehouse project off I-94, east of Middlebelt.

The mayor added that residential development in town has increased during the past year. Approximately 44 new housing projects were initiated.

"For many years, we had none. We're pleased not only with the number but the quality of housing," McAnally said.

Despite these projects, the mayor would like to see additional retail development within the city, especially in the downtown area.

"One of our goals will be to improve Goddard Road, to attract more business to downtown Romulus," McAnally said.

Parking, she said, is not as important as more places to shop.

"I'm looking forward to and hoping for some way to attract a creative way of shopping," she said.

Girl Scouts sell cookies

Area members of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council are taking orders for their annual assortment of cookies through Jan. 17 in western Wayne County.

Deliveries of the seven cookie flavors will be made between Feb. 13 and March 5. The 1989 area goal is to sell 950,000 boxes.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council includes western Wayne County and Washtenaw, Livingston and Monroe counties.

The sale is the major fundraising project for the organization and helps fund the program for more than 13,000 girls.

Each box is $2. Of that, $1.31 goes to the Girl Scout program. Each year, more than 100 million boxes are sold nationwide, making the Girl Scouts the fifth largest cookie retailer in the U.S.

Judges attend training course

Newly elected Inkster 22nd District Court Judge Sylvia James was among 51 new trial court judges in Michigan to attend a two-day training seminar Jan. 9.

The event, staged in Lansing, focused on critical areas of civil and criminal law, judicial ethics, the "art of judging," including communication with witnesses, attorneys and jurors and judicial demeanor. The program was conducted by the Michigan Judicial Institute, a continuing-education arm of the Michigan Supreme Court.

Area agency nets funding

A $22,717 grant was awarded recently to the YWCA of Western Wayne County by the Children's Trust Fund.

The monies are to be used to provide a neighborhood-based family-resource center at the YWCA, located on Michigan Avenue, in Inkster. The center is an addition to the Child and Family Neighborhood Program at the YWCA.

The objective of the program, CTF officials said, is to create an atmosphere to enable parents to understand the principles of human development, resulting in positive physical and mental growth of the child.

The program, which began Oct. 1, will continue for one year. It serves 80 families in and near Inkster.

The CTF was created in 1982 to fund local programs which prevent child abuse and neglect. It is supported by donations, including a checkoff box on the Michigan State Income Tax Return.

Teens joining a good cause

Members of the Wayne-based Michigan Elite Teens collected more than 100 cases of canned goods and other nonperishable food items this holiday season and presented them to the Gleaners, a portion of the Food Banks of Michigan.

The presentation was staged Jan. 6 at the Michigan Elite Teens office, 35609 Michigan Ave.

More than 30 teenagers participated in the effort, according to Fred Longton, Michigan Elite Teens leader. The group meets regularly to provide teenagers with job training, opportunities and recreation. Youths are given a forum to earn money on their own for school, clothing and savings.

Youngsters in the group reside in Wayne, Westland, Canton Township and other local communities.

Bus routes are popular

Area residents apparently enjoyed the use of mass transit this Christmas, after the local bus route connecting Westland Center to Fairlane malls showed a 121-percent ridership increase, according to the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority.

SEMTA route 250, the Westland bus line, was one of six regional routes to show a substantial increase in ridership during the holiday season.

Jail jitters

Local police chiefs want guaranteed use of new facility

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

A jail-space dilemma that has plagued area police departments might soon be settled by a proposal of the Western Wayne Chiefs of Police to "force the problem back to the area where it can be solved."

Lack of space at the Wayne County jail has forced local departments to seek alternatives—keeping prisoners in their own lockups or contracting with out-state communities to house prisoners.

Currently, the police chiefs describe themselves as in a "Catch 22" situation. Officials may, by law, only detain prisoners for up to 72 hours in local lockups. At that time—Canton Township Police Chief John Santomauro told the members of the Conference of Western Wayne during a meeting Friday—the prisoners must be released, or the department could face a liability.

Santomauro said there is concern among the police chiefs that the new jail may not be used to house pre-trial felons and misdemeanants as promised. The new jail will be constructed with a 1-mill tax hike approved by county voters Aug. 2.

The Western Wayne Chiefs of Police proposal calls for prisoners to be taken to the Wayne County jail and designates the responsibility of finding alternate space for them—in the event that the facility is overcrowded—to the Wayne County sheriff. This could include finding alternative facilities in underutilized jails in other parts of the state.

"The sheriff (Robert Ficano) is sympathetic to our plight, and he is ready to accept the prisoners," Santomauro said. "Judge (Richard) Kaufman (who placed the limitation on jail population) is considering some changes at this point, and we expect to hear from him soon."

Private jails still options

Plans to construct a private jail in Wayne County might also help ease overcrowding during 1989.

State Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) told members of the CWW that he plans to re-introduce a bill during the 1989 session of the state Legislature which, if adopted, would allow the privatization of jails.

The senator noted that private jails would pay taxes on property, thus adding to the tax base of the host community.

Dennis Archer, CWW representative from Dearborn, told the 17-community CWW to "be aware that we have an individual in Dearborn who is ready to build a private jail."

Archer referred to Dearborn businessman Chip Acey, who had last year sought to build a private jail to house misdemeanants in Sumpter Township. His proposal was vigorously opposed by township residents, and Acey abandoned his plan to build a jail in the Rawsonville Road area.

Council meeting to be taped

On an experimental basis, a Romulus city council meeting will be taped for cable television Feb. 6.

The meeting will be aired later in the week on the Romulus cable channel.

"If it works out, we'll do it on a regular basis," said Debbie Dick, director of the Romulus Recreation Center and member of the Romulus Cable Committee.

School partnership is launched

A kick-off ceremony for the upcoming Partnership in Education program for Romulus schools is planned for Thursday.

The program, for which the school district received a $5,000 grant from the state board of education, will involve a cooperative effort between Romulus schools and local businesses.

The kick-off event, sponsored by the Romulus Community Schools Partnerships for Education Advisory Council, will introduce participants in the program.

In addition, Elaine Gordon, partnerships coordinator for the Michigan Department of Education, will speak.

The event is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Ramada Inn - Metro Airport.

Saturday program begins

As of Saturday, Wick, Hayti, Halecreek and the old South Junior High gymnasiums will be open from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturdays for elementary school students.

The program is sponsored by the Romulus Recreation Center.

Junior high and high school students may use the gym from 2 until 4 p.m.

School identification cards will be checked at the door for junior high and high school students.

Senior center outings planned

The Romulus Senior Center will sponsor a number of outings this winter ranging from shopping to a mystery trip.

Friday, a van will be available for those who want to shop at Target and Meijer. The cost is $1.50 and advance registration is required.

In addition, seats are still available for a mystery trip planned for Jan. 26. The cost of the trip is $29 and includes lunch.

For February, the center will provide a tour of the Jiffy Mix Company in Chelsea. Lunch is included in the $27 cost of the trip.

A March 16 trip to Frankenthuth for the John Gary Show is also planned.

Valentine party begins early

Romulus youngsters should start making their valentines now if they want to participate in a special drawing at the public library.

All handmade valentines will be put on display at the Romulus Public Library from Jan. 16 through Feb. 13. Children who bring in a Valentine may enter a drawing for a special prize. The winner will be notified Feb. 14.

Local residents debate health center

Opponents fear loss of authority

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A school-based teen health clinic in Romulus would undermine parental authority, according to a group of Romulus residents who have voiced strong opposition to a clinic which they believe will become a reality.

During an informal meeting, these residents were given an opportunity to voice their concerns.

The complaints begin with the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee, which has received two grants from the Michigan Department of Health to determine the needs of local teens. Committee members must offer a recommendation to meet these needs in March. Among those options - a school-based health center.

Those opposed to the notion of a clinic are skeptical about committee members' claims that a school-based health clinic could not provide birth control prescriptions, abortions or referrals to facilities which do provide abortions.

"They will refer them to other agencies in the area who can and will refer them to areas that perform abortions," Romulus parent Lucille Raymond said. "It's an indirect referral system," she said.

Raymond said she realizes teens in Romulus face a number of needs, including general health care and emotional counseling. She believes, however, that health centers are run in accordance to the beliefs of groups like Planned Parenthood. Raymond strongly objects to that group, and said it has been known to provide clinics with models for sex education programs, resources for these programs and films and videos. She, along with Romulus parent Sondra Stepchuk, said many of the problems facing teens today stem from sex education in the schools. They prefer programs that provide basic biological information with an emphasis on morality and abstinence.

"The current type (sex education) does advocate competency in sex rather than restraint," Stepchuk said.

"Teen health centers try to control the sex education," she added.

Raymond also pointed out organizations such as the Michigan Catholic Conference, The Assembly of God and the Southern Baptist Convention which have all issued resolutions in opposition to school-based health clinics.

Steve Kreft, another Romulus resident in opposition to a school-based health center, doubts the need of such a facility.

"Here in Romulus we have various support systems already in the community," he said. "The counseling they (young people) need is only a phone call away."

Kreft said school officials are entering an area in which they don't belong by proposing a teen health center. He believes once a clinic is established, existing policies would change and state laws would not necessarily be obeyed.

"There's so many loopholes (in state laws) it would difficult to enforce them," Kreft said.

State law prohibits the distribution of birth control devices or abortion referrals in the schools.

Michael Quillen is a resident of Ypsilanti who is working with Romulus residents in opposition to the teen health center. He also attempted to stop the school-based health clinic which exists now in the Ypsilanti school district.

"The public hasn't been alerted to the problems of school-based health clinics," Quillen said. "The main problem is these school-based health clinics are being promoted by organizations that promote population control and contracepting teens."

Quillen said that the Center for Population Options (CPO) may be the number one supporter of school-based clinics in the nation. He said Kate Conway, director of RAHAC, attended a seminar staged by that group in 1987. He believes RAHAC is practicing many of the methods recommended by CPO to incorporate a school-based clinic. These methods include discussing the clinic with those who would be most receptive, emphasizing that comprehensive medical treatment would be provided and establishing an advisory committee made up of people who are supportive of the idea.

Stepchuk suggested that future state laws may require Michigan-licensed doctors to provide contraceptive information or services regardless of community policies.

"The school board can say what they want; they still have to go by the county, state or federal laws," Aubrey Simons said.

"We still don't know what laws may be forthcoming about what services school-based health centers may provide or how they may provide them," Quillen added. "If that happens, which is likely, the (local) policies lose significance."

He, along with others opposing the clinic, fear a teen health center would interfere with parental authority.

"It's our belief that parents should be able to manage the health care of their children without being undermined by the schools," Quillen said.

Center would cater to teens' needs

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

As complaints over the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee and a proposed teen health center continue, committee director Kate Conway claims the controversy is ill-founded.

The committee is searching for ways to meet the needs of teens in this community, and despite claims from some parents, Conway said the purpose of the committee is not to form a school-based health center. A teen health center is one option under consideration, she said.

If a clinic was established in a school, Conway continued, it could not provide birth control prescriptions, abortions or abortion referrals.

If a teen health center does become a reality, it would try to address the causes for sexual activity among teens and teen pregnancies, Conway said.

"There's no reason a 14-year-old kid should be (sexually) active," Conway said. "Much of it comes from low self-esteem," she added. "The primary reason these kids get involved is they want to be loved, to be close to someone."

An important function of a teen health center would be counseling, Conway said. The clinic staff would stress abstinence and self-esteem. Recreational programs may be provided.

"...try to get their energies focused on constructive, life-affirming activities," Conway said.

Conway said approximately 70 percent of the students at Romulus High School are sexually active. Thirty percent of the junior high students are sexually active.

"You've got a lot of kids who are already sexually active. Programs are needed to show them sex doesn't equal love or intimacy. They are two different things."

Conway said services such as these are needed by teens in Romulus more than another family planning or abortion clinic.

Conway outlined the required services for teen health centers under the Michigan Department of Public Health.

- A teen health center provides primary health care based on a student survey. The health care services must be recommended by the local advisory committee.

- Medicaid screening services are to be provided at the teen health center.

- Neither abortion counseling nor abortion services are to be provided at the teen health center.

- Information about other community services is provided at the request of an adolescent.

Conway emphasized that clinic personnel, in this case, would not be permitted to provide abortions or abortion referrals, unlike a family practice, which could provide a minor with confidential referrals to an abortion clinic.

Conway said she has no way of knowing what will happen once she refers a teen to another facility. She is simply required to avoid referrals to any place that performs abortions.

"How much control do they think anyone has?" Conway said. "The kids at the high school know about the clinic next door, and they know what it does." Conway was referring to a clinic near the high school which is sponsored by Planned Parenthood.

Another complaint against the proposed clinic is lack of local control. Some parents said they fear future state or federal laws will override local policies.

"The state laws have been more restrictive," she said. "The health department, the state legislation have all been responding to the controversy (over teen health clinics)."

A clinic, if established, would be run by two groups, a health advisory council and the board of education. The latter would have the final word over operations.

"Those who are concerned about the committee or proposed clinic are welcome to voice their opinions," Conway said. The advisory committee has openings for parents, she said. So a parent can become directly involved with the services provided to teens in Romulus. Another option is to petition the board of education, Conway said.

Parental input in the clinic, or any teen program, is crucial, added Conway. If a teen health center does become a reality, no students would be able to use it unless a signed parental consent form was on file. Conway said the form will be specific. In other words, a parent may say "I want my child to use the health center except for the following services..." Conway said.

Conway added that whatever services RAHAC recommends to the school board, the decision should be based on facts.

"If the community gets up in arms based on lies and distortion, the kids in the end are the losers."

Romulus woman 'lends ear' to lonely seniors

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

By offering a friendly ear, one Romulus woman brightens the world of 81 local senior citizens on a daily basis.

Through the Romulus Senior Center Telecare program, Connie Pastor calls those seniors five days a week just to see how they are doing.

"They seem to be very happy to hear from me," Pastor said. "They won't even go out or take a shower until I call."

Pastor, who took her job last March, said most of the seniors she calls are homebound. They became involved with Telecare by calling the senior center or through referral by relatives. Some of these people live alone, and Pastor is one of the few outside contacts they have.

"I had an experience with one of them. I didn't call on time. Boy, did he give it to me," Pastor said. "When someone makes a promise, they want it kept. I guess this is all they have, some of them."

When Pastor heard about the Telecare program last spring, the idea appealed to her immediately. She was surprised by how quickly she became attached to the seniors on her phone list. Pastor began keeping notes of birthdays, relative visits and doctor appointments. She said the seniors appreciate the fact she is concerned about their lives.

"It makes them feel good to know someone cares," she said.

When Pastor feels she has made one of the seniors happier, it makes her day. This feeling has almost become an addiction for her. She said she thought about "her seniors" often while on Christmas vacation.

"When I got back I couldn't wait to call them. It's an attachment you can't believe," she said.

Pastor added that she has not met all of the seniors on her list in person, but she considers all of them family.

"I have one woman I call who says 'God Bless You' before anything else."

The closeness Pastor feels for the seniors can be a mixed blessing. She worries about many of them who are ill and usually alone.

Dealing with the loss of any of the seniors is especially painful.

"I just lost one last week," Pastor recalled. She seemed fine. Then she had a heart attack. You're depressed for a long time, but what can you do? You pick yourself up; there are 80 other people to call."

Pastor welcomes all seniors interested in joining the telephone list. Sometimes people want to talk for quite a while. Pastor said she would never shut them out.

County official vying for circuit court post

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne County Commissioner Milt Mack (D-Wayne) is being considered to fill a vacancy on the Wayne County Circuit Court.

Mack applied for the position - created by retirements on the court - to Gov. James Blanchard and was interviewed last week by members of the State Bar Association.

"When you're an attorney, being appointed to the circuit court is always in the back of your mind," Mack said.

A 1975 graduate of Wayne State University Law School, Mack has been a practicing attorney for 13 years.

He currently balances his

Milton Mack

law practice with work on the county commission and for the state attorney general.

If appointed to the court, Mack must resign from the county commission.

"I would have mixed emotions about leaving the commission," Mack said. "I'm in a unique situation in that, if I'm not selected, I'll still be very happy with what I'm doing."

Mack, 40, has served on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners since 1982. He served on the Wayne City Council before being elected to the county post.

He is a graduate of Wayne Memorial High School.

Several candidates have applied for the two vacancies on the circuit court. Blanchard will make the final appointments based on ratings given by members of the bar association.

The appointments are expected within a few weeks.

"I'm sure whomever the governor chooses will be very well qualified and capable," Mack said.

Students honored for actions

Students at Halecreek Elementary School, in Romulus, are learning that it pays to be good—especially when it means a free meal.

A program at Halecreek has students hungry to be good, according to school secretary Mary Ann Banks. Students who perform exceptional deeds throughout a school day are named as a Halecreek Hawk Award winner.

Students earn the Hawk Award by performing such good deeds as helping in the office, helping a custodian or even opening a door for someone.

At the end of the month, 18 student names are drawn from a box and winners receive a free McDonald's restaurant lunch delivered to the school, Banks said.

Seniors, students work hand-in-hand

Seniors from September Days Senior Center, in Belleville, and students at Elwell Elementary, in Belleville, were buddies for a day last month.

The seniors visited students at Elwell and worked on various craft projects throughout the day.

Computers find new home

Computer classes—once crowded into a corner of the library at St. Anthony's School—now have their own room to conduct daily tasks and special projects.

After utilizing the small, cramped quarters last term, students are enjoying the new, roomy facility, which a fifth-grader described as "awesome."

"The computer is an important part of life. Students without computer knowledge will be at a disadvantage in the future," Sr. Denise said. "I believe there will be a time soon when computer classes will be mandated for elementary students as well as those in high school."

In addition to the scheduled classes, teachers bring groups to the computer room to reinforce regular classroom work in science, social studies and other classes plus drill work.

Credit for the construction of the computer room primarily goes to three parishioners, according to Sr. Denise Seymour. After approval was granted to begin the project, John Ramsey, Dale Travis and Laurie Travis took on the task of building the walls, cupboards and tables and the painting and staining of the surfaces. Although not part of the work team, Connie Ramsey took on the babysitting tasks while the others worked on the project during the evening hours and on the weekends, they said. A donation of $2,000 from the Men's Club was used to purchase the initial materials, non-static carpeting was contributed by John Myles and wood was donated by Exhibit Works of Livonia.

Student leaders
tapped at Tyler

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

The goal of Tony Moucoulis, a fifth-grader at Tyler Elementary, in Belleville, may not be to fight drug dealers, crime in the country or even the national deficit, but he will do his best to make Tyler a better place to learn.

Moucoulis was recently elected president of the student council.

Jennifer Lussier was chosen as secretary, David Straight as treasurer and Roger Shaffer was elected vice president.

The election, according to Principal Don Priest, was completely above board. Only registered student voters were permitted to cast ballots.

Tyler. I thought it would be a very positive thing to have the student leaders," he said.

And now that the student leaders have been elected, Priest said the duties of each officer will be established.

"The president will conduct the student council meetings and he'll call executive board meetings where he and the other officers will meet with me and share ideas. They'll also meet with students representatives from each of the rooms," said Priest.

As the first president ever at the school, Tony Moucoulis said he is ready to tackle the job and will try to make the school a better place.

"Every student in the school had the opportunity to register. We pointed out that this is how our voting procedure occurs in the country. We wanted to make it similar to the recent elections," Priest said. "The students have been studying the elections and we wanted something to compare our elections to."

To make the elections even more realistic, Priest said the candidates campaigned and had staffs to help them become elected.

This is the first student council ever at the school, Priest said.

"It made a lot of sense to me to establish a student council at

"I'm new at this and we're just getting started. Mr. Priest was giving us some ideas to do," said Moucoulis, the day he was elected. "One idea was to have a get-together party with families. Another idea was for the student council to go to the state capital and see how the government works. We're also thinking of a bowling and roller skating party. 'I haven't really thought of what to do now that I'm elected. But I guess I would like to get newer things for the classrooms, such as a TV or computer. I think this will be good for me and will get me a good reputation. I'm glad I got elected because I was really looking forward to this,'" he explained.

Problem solvers praised

"From the Hallways" is a weekly column written by students from area schools.

HALLWAY TALK

"I was so excited, shocked and proud we did so well," said senior Mary Shell. Shell was joined at the competition by fellow senior Amy Lunde and juniors Tom Neuhart and Melissa Zajec.

Topics for the solvers to tackle next will include "youth and the law."

"They have the potential to win," said Sally Boelter, team sponsor. —

Deadline for submission to the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging is 5 p.m. Jan. 31. Those interested in being considered should contact their local area agency.

Speaker named for senior day

Dr. Daniel Thursz, the new president of the National Council on Aging, will be the keynote speaker for the 1989 Senior Power Day, in Lansing.

Thursz will speak to the theme "Senior Power: Building a Community of Generations." More than 6,000 people are expected to attend the 15th annual daylong event May 16.

Senior Power Day will be staged at the Lansing Civic Arena. Tickets are available free of charge to all Michigan older adults on a first-come, first-served basis from any of the state 14 area agencies on aging.

Contact your local senior citizens' center for information.

Area residents invited to forum

Local residents are being invited by officials from the Michigan State Board of Education to attend a meeting and reception Monday designed to discuss proposed initiatives to improve educational quality and equity in Michigan public schools.

"Goals 2000: Deliver the Dream" will be staged from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. at the Breithaupt Vocational Center, 9300 Hubbell St., Detroit. The event is the fourth in a series of seven public meetings.

Other meetings will be staged in Lansing, Midland and Rochester. The first three were staged in Grand Rapids, Traverse City and Marquette.

Rental privacy is state law

A new state law is in effect that protects the privacy of people who rent or buy video tapes, recordings or books.

Under the law, businesses that handle the materials will be prohibited from disclosing the names or identifying information about customers. The information can be released only if a customer gives written consent, by a court order or for collection purposes.

Phone etiquette outlined in law

A new state law makes it illegal for a person to deliberately and maliciously make repeated telephone calls to another individual, only to hang up without speaking.

This kind of telephone harassment, which accounts for approximately 20 percent of all consumer nuisance-call complaints, has not previously been addressed by Michigan law.

The law also prohibits unsolicited commercial sales telephone calls between 9 p.m. and 9 a.m.

Insurance is eyed for state farmers

The state Department of Agriculture will ask Michigan farmers to vote on whether to establish a Michigan Agricultural Commodity Insurance Fund in the state treasury.

If the referendum vote is approved, all Michigan grain dealers will contribute to the fund, in amounts equaling one-tenth of 1 percent of the dollar value of the commodity they sell.

A farmer who suffers financial losses in the failure of a grain dealer's warehouse or elevator could draw upon the fund for 100 percent reimbursement for losses up to $20,000 and $0 for losses more than $20,000.

Local disputes to be mediated

State lawmakers have established a community-dispute-resolution program to help Michigan residents resolve personal legal differences in a quick and inexpensive manner.

Mediators at community centers throughout the state will provide conciliation, mediation, arbitration and other services as an alternative to using the courts. Participation in the program is voluntary and by mutual agreement of the disputing parties.

Funding for the program is from a $2 increase in civil filing fees in all circuit and district courts in Michigan.

Art aboard!

Art will be coming down the tracks to the area this spring, as the officials of re-nowned Artrain plan scheduled stops in Wayne and Plymouth. Purpose of the five-car traveling museum is to bring art directly to people and to be a catalyst for community education in the arts and humanities. The train — which features an audio-visual area, three gallery cars with more than 200 antique toys, photo panel displays, interactive exhibits, a gift shop and studio car — is sponsored by the Ann Arbor-based Artrain organization and the Michigan Council for the Arts. It is the only traveling art museum in the nation. A full tour lasts approximately 45 minutes. Admission is free, although a small donation is suggested. The train will stop in the city of Wayne May 4 through 7 and the city of Plymouth June 1 to 4. Special photo to ANP

Emergency 911 phone system on line in June

Enhanced 911 emergency telephone service will begin in the 17 Conference of Western Wayne communities on June 9. The announcement was made by Enhanced 911 coordinator Joseph Benyo at the January meeting of the CWW. He said the June date was selected to coincide with the CWW meeting date "so that we can host some kind of celebration that day."

"We're progressing well," Benyo said. "Equipment has been ordered and rooms are being prepared to house the equipment. Training will begin in March, and we'll be ready for the turn on date."

Benyo said all of the communities will be tested prior to being put into operation.

"The next task facing us is one of public relations to inform people about Enhanced 911," Benyo said. "We're going to start with a round table meeting with the people who will be operating the equipment. Later we'll be making announcements on television and radio and also doing a major report on cable television."

Benyo said the CWW plans to make an informational film about the Enhanced 911 system which can be used by all member communities. Community leaders, however, will be able to film their own "lead in" to personalize the film for their city or township. Benyo said the Westland cable facilities were volunteered for the project by CWW Chairman Charles Griffin, mayor of Westland.

Winter aid plentiful for area senior citizens

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

The long winter months are especially hazardous to older residents in the area.

Snow and slippery roads often keep senior citizens confined to their homes, leaving little opportunity for companionship. In addition, with the limited income of many seniors, facing the high cost of winter heating bills can be burdensome.

Area senior centers and counseling agencies, as well as utility companies, have established programs to aid seniors during the winter months.

"The winter time is especially difficult for seniors for so many reasons," said Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek, director of the Westland Senior Resources Department.

While area senior citizen centers offer some relief, it is still necessary for neighbors to watch for others, especially the older residents in the neighborhood.

The Romulus Help Center and the Friendship Center, in Westland, are two agencies which provide senior citizens with a helping hand.

A call to the Romulus Help Center, 942-7585, will net seniors help with shoveling driveways and sidewalks, nutritious meals and counseling services. The help center serves Canton Township, Belleville, Inkster, Wayne, Romulus and Westland, as well as some Downriver communities.

Other services available through area centers include the following:

- Home Chores is a federal program administered through local communities. Approximately 100 homes are shoveled in Westland after each snowfall, thanks to Home Chores. Westland residents should call 722-7628 for information. Others should call the Romulus Help Center.

- Telephone assurance programs are effective means for "keeping an eye" on seniors year round but especially during the winter. Westland and Wayne senior centers offer this program, in which volunteers call seniors every day to make sure they are all right. In Westland, hundreds of calls are made every day. Some of those calls have resulted in saved lives.

- Homebound meals are delivered each day by community volunteers to seniors unable to leave their homes. To arrange meal delivery, call the nearest senior center.

- A depression and stress support group is being offered each week at the Friendship Center, in Westland. The group meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesdays to discuss the depression that results from living alone throughout the loneliest months of the year.

For those senior citizens who find it difficult to pay expensive heating bills during the winter, the utility companies offer some assistance.

The Heat Bank, administered by Wayne-Metropolitan Community Services Agency, accepts applications from families in need of energy assistance. The Heat Bank is supported by Michigan Consolidated Gas Company.

Consumers Power offers several programs to ease the burden of winter heating bills for seniors. Programs such as the Winter Protection Plan, the Primetimers Senior Club and the Medical Emergency Program protect senior citizens from heating shutoffs during the winter.

Citizen input

Hearing aids senior-agency budget process

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

During a public forum staged Jan. 13 at the Inkster Recreation Complex, members of The Senior Alliance received input from local senior citizens, service providers and the general public regarding the 1990-92 Area Plan.

The Senior Alliance serves as the area agency on aging for western and southern Wayne County, distributing approximately $3.5 million in contracted services to 34 member communities.

The agency conducts two public meetings per year to receive input on funding priorities, to identify gaps in the existing service network, to target services to seniors in greatest need and to establish areas of advocacy.

Leading the list of concerns was a general lack of funding in the areas of services to the hearing impaired and deaf, adult day care, transportation and respite care.

Linda Binkelmann is deputy director of the Deaf Hearing and Speech Center, in Redford. She identified four areas of need affecting the deaf and hearing impaired in southeast Michigan:

- Public education. The public needs to be educated about the rights of the deaf and their need to receive the same kind of information that the hearing individual receives.
- Hearing aid fraud. Through the Deaf Hearing and Speech Center, seniors can obtain hearing aids at a low cost. Binkelmann cautioned area seniors to be wary of traveling hearing aid salesmen.
- More interpreters. There is a shortage of interpreters, according to Binkelmann, who is currently the only interpreter serving the Downriver area. The case load is increasing, she said, leaving walk-in clients frustrated. She identified a need to hire a part-time interpreter.

- Senior center. A new senior center is needed designed for the needs of the deaf and hearing impaired. Workers at the existing office in Redford have experienced a number of problems including lack of heat, unsafe drinking water and the existence of lead and asbestos construction materials.
- During nutrition time, they will bring in a speaker and the program coordinator (interpreter) won't be there and we can't hear what the speaker is saying," said Lloyd Schlegel, of Belleville. Schlegel is a senior center specialist at the William Ford Center in Taylor.
- Marie E. Wentela, from the Wayne County Office on Aging, also presented a list of items which she said needed additional funding to provide crucial services to area seniors:
- Adult day care. There are currently sites in Ann Arbor, Westland and Dearborn where seniors requiring supervision may be taken during the day-time. The day care service is one less costly alternative to nursing home care. Another alternative is in-home or out-of-home respite care. This service allows the caregiver, or the person taking care of a family member, a chance to get out of the house for a few hours.
- In some cases, a respite care worker can come to the home. In other cases, the elderly person requiring supervision is taken to a hospital for a period of time.
- "We need to increase these services in Wayne County," said Wentela. "Nursing home costs are approximately $22,000 annually, whereas adult day care ranges from $3,000 to $6,000. Adult day care is a better and more humane approach to taking care of the elderly than placing them in nursing homes."

- Transportation. In the northwest quadrant of the county, there are taxis which provide door-to-door service. The balance of the county relies on small connector buses or larger SEMTA buses. Wentela said it is difficult for some seniors, living blocks away from the nearest bus stop, to find adequate transportation.
- Gardens. Wentela would like to see an increase in the number of gardens cultivated by seniors in the Eloise Farm area. She said the vegetables provide a supplemental food source, as well as recreational and healthful opportunities.
- One service provider, Jo Anne Klocke, of the Wayne County Office on Aging, said she was "amazed at the amount of service we had given with the minimal monies we received."
- Klocke said additional, private sources of funding must be attained to provide services at an adequate level.
- "The Medical Prescription Program based in Wayne County has a waiting list," Klocke said. "This year, we dispensed $87,000 worth of drugs to 2,100 individuals. Three thousand were turned away."
- In the spring, even with a new federal program in effect, people will be turned away who do not meet minimum income guidelines, Klocke said. Some people on the waiting list have died before receiving benefits, she said. One client had to move out of her house to pay her medical bills.

$500 million plan to clean Rouge River

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

A comprehensive, $500 million plan to rescue the Rouge River from years of neglect has been approved by two regional committees.

Drafted as the result of a 1985 directive from the Michigan Water Resources Commission, the Rouge River Remedial Action Plan, also known as RAP, has been circulating in draft form throughout all 48 communities in the Rouge River basin.

Final approval of the plan took place Jan. 12 at the Edison Plaza Building in Detroit at a joint meeting of members of the Rouge River Basin Committee and Executive Steering Committee.

Committee members are hopeful the plan will serve as a guide to the implementation of corrective measures to improve the water quality of the Rouge River through the year 2005.

The recommendations made in the RAP will be implemented through a cooperative effort including the Water Resources Commission, the DNR, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and local units of government.

Key recommendations include the following:

- The RAP will maintain as its primary goals the protection of public health and the attainment of all water quality standards.
- The same standards and objectives for remedial actions will apply across the basin.
- One major factor in the cleanup of the Rouge is an outdated method of transporting waste known as combined sewer overflow, or CSO. Prior to the 1950s, many communities built a sewer system which transported both water and sewage together, according to James Rogers, project manager for SEMCOG. During a heavy rainfall, he said, the sewage escaped from the system into the river.
- RAP officials hope to solve the CSO problem by either requiring communities to separate their sewers into two separate pipes—one for sewage, one for water—or by providing minimum treatment of the water through an appropriate settling, skimming and disinfecting process.
- "We analyzed some existing plans," Rogers said. "We had a consultant work with us and come up with an overall approach. It costed out at $500 million in capital costs for a series of treatment basins. The communities will be responsible for designing and constructing the facilities. It will be enforced through the DNR. Rogers said the requirements will be phased in over a five-year period.

IRREGULAR OVULATION IS COMMON CAUSE OF INFERTILITY IN WOMEN

By David Magyar, D.O.

Ovulation dysfunction accounts for nearly half of all cases of infertility in women. As I discussed in this column last week, infertility can result when too many ovarian cysts exist, if the egg or ovum is inadequately ripened, or if the ovum gets trapped in the ovaries.

Environmental factors such as extreme weight gain or loss, strenuous exercise, or stress also can effect ovulation, and thus fertilization and pregnancy.

TREAT UNDERLYING FACTORS

When one of these environmental factors is the root cause of ovulatory dysfunction, it must be dealt with first.

For example, a runner who engages in strenuous exercise may have to decrease the number of miles she runs and gain weight in order to achieve normal ovulation.

Similarly, weight loss in an obese woman may allow for regular ovulation, or may lead to a decrease in the amount of medication needed to initiate ovulation.

DRUGS CAN HELP

When medication is necessary to stimulate ovulation, a fertility drug is usually prescribed. Many of these drugs have been in use for about 25 years, and much is known about their behavior.

The drug Clomiphene is widely used and can be taken by mouth. In more resistant cases, Pergonal or Metrodin may be injected into the patient. Other drugs, such as prednisone, dexamethasone, or human chorionic gonadotropin may be added to the regimen.

SERIOUS COMPLICATIONS ARE RARE

While side effects of fertility drugs are common, serious complications are not.

Careful monitoring of women using these medications is essential to ensure and document normal ovulation. Pelvic examinations, ovarian ultrasounds, and blood hormone tests often are conducted and can help to limit complications and the rate of multiple pregnancy.

Most women taking fertility drugs will eventually ovulate normally, and of those who conceive, 75 to 90 percent (depending on what drug is taken) will experience a single pregnancy.

Opinion

All talk, no action hurts our schools

Area school officials need to put their money – and their actions – where their mouth is.

Support from educators in the Wayne-Westland, Van Buren, Romulus, Inkster, Westwood and Plymouth-Canton schools is necessary – if not pivotal – to the battle for more "equitable funding" of public education. Our school leaders have been fine leaders in their vocal criticisms of the way we currently fund public education, but they have yet to commit their thoughts to actions by participating in one of the worthwhile advocacy groups existing.

One such group is the Michigan In-Formula Caucus, spearheaded by neighboring school Superintendent Gary Jackson, of the Huron district. The caucus allegedly represents 235 Michigan school districts, including Wayne-Westland, Belleville and Romulus. However, only one of the three – Wayne-Westland – is a dues-paying school district.

The current efforts of the Michigan In-Formula Caucus are worth noting and should be considered the groundwork of a better education system in Michigan. Representatives of the group are linking their legal expertise and strategies and considering a class-action lawsuit against the state to spur and speed up efforts to reform our state-education system.

Those efforts, however, are being made only in vain without the support, financial aid and blessing of all districts the group purports to represent.

Also worth a glance from our local school leaders is the Boards United for Fair Funding of Schools. This organization targets in-formula school districts – a prerequisite every local district can meet. Although almost one year old, the group has a weak platform that has little promise of being solidified, because of a lack of organization and support from the Downriver and western Wayne school districts it was created to serve.

To be fair, officials from the Romulus and Wayne-Westland districts have shown superficial support for BUFFS, but they have never dedicated themselves to the cause by attending regular meetings or paying the $100 membership fee.

Area school officials cannot allow their bark to be louder than their bite. A real battle to change the Michigan public-education system can be fought only with both words and actions.

We've heard your words, western Wayne County school leaders. We were impressed by your desire to provide some sense of logic, equity and quality in public education.

Now, we're waiting to see you put your money and your actions where your mouth is. When you do, public-education change will be imminent.

Our goals for 1989

1989 should mean bigger and better things for residents in western Wayne County. Why not? Development is still booming. The economy is upbeat. And the time is perfect for the area to secure a seat of prominence on the map.

At the beginning of each year, the Associated Newspapers challenges local officials to fulfill a set of area-wide goals. None of these are grandiose or too lofty to achieve, but all are important in our eyes to make this area a better place to live.

Some of our goals for the 1989 include the following:

- Develop western Wayne County and the surrounding region as a marketable entity to attract business, industry, residents and tourists. We believe the Greater Detroit campaign is a worthwhile project that should continue.
- End a yearlong political battle of better education-funding in Michigan. We still believe lawmakers should stage local meetings with school leaders, parents and students within their districts to capture local ideas about school-finance reform. After these sessions, lawmakers should return to Lansing and work seriously toward a comprehensive and effective reform package.
- Maintain openness in government at all times. This includes up-front public disclosure of activities by all community officials, open public meetings and access to records.
- Develop a solid-waste plan that will work and be cost-effective for Wayne County. Also, begin an education program that will spur a transition from traditional garbage disposal to recycling and incineration.
- Maintain only the highest level of dignity, honesty, professionalism and civic duty in our local elected offices. Especially in an election year, we expect all of our public servants to be above reproach, above suspicion and – above all – prime examples of American pride and honesty.

Residents voiced pit bull complaints

In reference to the pit bull story which appeared in the Dec. 21 edition of The Belleville Enterprise, I must take issue with the quote by Van Buren Police Chief Joseph Davies.

"Before this time, we had no other pit bull reports."

That statement is absolutely untrue.

Since March 1988, I have personally called the police numerous times regarding the many pit bulls living next door to me. On March 22, I presented the police with a signed statement expressing my concern for my daughter's safety.

I know of at least one other neighbor who also issued a signed statement in June, and several of my neighbors have complained to the police, individually as well as collectively.

I find it appalling that, in a community with so many young children, in a neighborhood with an elementary school only eight houses away, with the area newspapers documenting new pit bull attacks almost every other day, that our police department can be so unconcerned.

Furthermore, I find it incredible that the police chief is unaware of our concerns. Doesn't he get copies of our complaints?

Pit bill problem is ongoing concern

This is in reference to the pit bull story in the Dec. 21 edition of The Belleville Enterprise. I must say that the quote by Van Buren Police Chief Joseph Davies is not true.

LETTERS

Since March, I have made complaints about the pit bulls four houses from me. There are many times that these dogs are out of the yard.

I signed a petition, and all that was done was the owner was told that, in a reasonable amount of time, he had to put up kennels for the dogs.

I sit here and fear that, one of these days, someone is going to get hurt. Is that what it is going to take for the police to do something?

Every time I have called the police, they tell me that there is nothing they can do. I cannot understand how the police chief cannot know about all these reports. Doesn't he get copies of all the reports that are made?

Canton officials not in reality

We, in the Plymouth-Canton school district, are about to face another school election in which we will again be asked to override the Headlee amendment and allow the school district to collect the full "authorized" millage. I plan to vote "no".

Little has happened since the last Headlee override turnaround to convince me that a tax increase in this district is necessary. A committee (CREW) was formed to "improve communications" with the voters. However, I have found this to be an attempt to brainwash the voters into voting for the Headlee override, with no real attempt to recognize major problem areas and try to solve them.

Success is due to many in area

Thanks to the residents of the Miller-Isbister school area who contributed bottles to make the Cub Scout Pack 854 bottle drive a success Jan. 7.

We would especially like to thank Mr. Holliday of A&P, at Coventry Commons, for his kindness and cooperation in assisting us with this fundraiser.

The Cub Scouts and their families who helped them saw firsthand the true community spirit of helpfulness in the Plymouth-Canton community.

Program salvation aided by residents

The parents and students of the talented and gifted program in the Plymouth-Canton schools wish to thank all the people who participated in the campaign to save the ninth-grade TAG English class.

Among them are 117 families, virtually all the TAG teachers and administrators, all the school board members, the TAG advisory committee and all administrators who have responsibility for the high school ninth-grade English program.

These people spent countless hours on the telephone, gathering and clarifying information. All was done while school was on vacation.

We know you made the best decision for the kids. We thank all of you for your effort and your dedication.

THE CHALLENGES OF 1989

Year is filled with problems to be solved

Editor's note: During 1989, the staff of the Associated Newspapers will explore the community concerns facing residents in our area. This in-depth, ongoing series is our attempt to provide the answers - or at least explain - concerns about crime, development, deteriorating neighborhoods, drugs, education, housing, public safety, public transportation, recreation, solid-waste disposal and taxes.

This week, we asked area leaders and residents to list their top concerns for 1989. Their answers follow. Beginning Feb. 1 and continuing once each month, we will focus on one of the concerns outlined.

We hope this localized series will "hit home" and provide at least a few answers about the community in which you live. We welcome your comments and feedback and look forward to your interest throughout 1989.

hat is the most major concern facing western Wayne County lawmakers, leaders and residents during 1989?

Could it be education and the lack of adequate funding for our area public schools? Perhaps, the local environment is deteriorating to the point of a red alarm.

Ask any area victim of an auto theft, mugging or burglary what his main concern for 1989 is, and the answer will be obvious.

We polled governmental and school leaders in western Wayne County and asked them to list their key concerns for the new year. We also surveyed residents on the streets and collected their responses.

Here are the 1989 major concerns of western Wayne County, grouped by community.

Belleville area

Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jakokes believes the solving of the solid waste disposal problem will be the major issue facing, not only his community, but all of western Wayne County.

"Recycling, composting and disposing of rubbish will be major concerns for the 1990s," Jakokes said. "Because we already have a waste management director - Ed Delhagen - on staff, I believe we are a step or two ahead of other communities."

Jakokes said the solving of the solid waste disposal problem and numerous other concerns that face the area, must be addressed on an area-wide basis.

Belleville Mayor Glenn Suenis agrees that many of the same problems will face the three communities in the next decade, and the most effective way to address them will be through cooperative efforts of the city and two townships. Sumpter Township Supervisor

Marvin Banatol also voiced his agreement that cooperative efforts are needed to solve the problems of the tri-community area.

Canton Township

The buzzwords in the administrative offices of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools these days are "double whammy."

The phrase refers to the financial plight of the district, one of several crucial problems highlighted recently by local officials living and working in Canton Township.

"The quality of education is being eaten and eroded away by lack of funding," according to Dr. John Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. "The thing that is killing us is we're not able to levy the authorized millage. We've had to cut programs."

School board members trimmed $4.4 million from the 1988-89 budget, as a result of a 2.83-mill Headlee rollback and a $5 million loss in state aid - the "double whammy."

In 1989-90, the district will face another Headlee rollback and additional cuts, before finally becoming an out-of-formula district. With most nonessential programs already in jeopardy from cuts made during the summer, the 1989-90 budget crunch could spell the word "elimination" for many programs and jobs.

For the Canton Township government, the biggest issues facing local officials are future development and solid wastes, according to township Clerk Loren Bennett.

Township officials recently discussed long-term goals and a proposed "mission statement."

"In terms of future development, I believe we, as a board, must set certain goals and standards," Bennett said. "That is what the electorate has asked us to do. Once the township board has set those goals, it is important for township leaders to step back from the day-to-day management of those goals and leave it to the administration."

Canton Township officials will attempt to slow growth and improve quality standards, in an effort to offset the public perception of the township as nothing more than a vast assortment of strip malls, fast-food establishments, bars and cheap motels.

THE CONCERNS OF AREA RESIDENTS

Kitty Davies

Volunteer
Van Buren Township

"I think there is a lot we can do to help young girls increase their own feelings of self-worth and self-esteem so that they have control over their bodies and their futures. We need to do things to halt the disastrous chain of events that follow teen pregnancies - school drop-outs, the beginning of chain of public assistance and many social problems that occur when children attempt to parent children.

Debbie Zevalkink

Secretary
Canton Township

"I think we need classier development. For instance, look at the I-275, Ann Arbor Road exit - you have a Bennigan's a Vic Tanny's. Look at the I-275, Ford Road exit - you have a Budgetel, a Knights Inn, umpteen-million fast-food restaurants.

There's nothing in terms of women's fashion. A Winkelman's - that's it, very little in children's clothing.

Dosye Thompson

Teacher
Inkster

"When I drive home from my teaching job in Ypsilanti, I travel eastbound on Michigan Avenue to come home. And, when I go through Ypsilanti and in Wayne, there is all sorts of construction going on. However, when I hit Inkster, what you find is a row of motels and vacant land. Where is our business? Our commerce? It just isn't there. And that's what I'm concerned with.

Irene Jemigan

Housewife
Romulus

"There isn't a place you can go in this city - north, east, south, west - that you're not stopped by a train. There's no way of getting around it."

Jemigan has been concerned about blockage at railroad crossings since she moved to Romulus in 1959.

Ruth Clark

Store Clerk
Wayne

"I would like to see the drug and alcohol problem dealt with more severely. I think drugs and alcohol are why we have so many problems. If we address it, we will be a lot better off in a lot of areas.

I really hope we can attract more quality businesses in the city. It would really help the area and the stores that are already here."

Jan Plonski

Retired
Westland

"We don't have kids in school, and we are living on fixed incomes. We have to eat, too."

Plonski believes taxes are a major issue for 1989.

A return to a gentler time is also on his mind. He would like to see a return to the days when a "Be nice sign" was on the back of every city police car and police officers carried brooms in the trunks to clean up the glass in the street after an accident.

Nominees sought: 1989 person of year named by newspaper

Who was the most influential and important newsmaker in western Wayne County during 1988?

Officials from the Associated Newspapers want their readers to decide.

The newspaper group is sponsoring the 1988 Person of the Year Award for individuals residing in or doing business in the areas served by the newspapers. One individual will be chosen the person of the year, and five runners-up will also be honored - one from each of the five remaining newspaper coverage areas.

Nominations will be accepted

Scope of the award is to honor outstanding community activists and those who have contributed much to the betterment of western Wayne County.

until 5 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 26 at the main office of the newspaper, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne.

This is an extension of an earlier-set deadline.

Nominations may be informal in nature and may be written on any piece of paper. Entry forms must list the following information: nominee name, business or personal address, city, affiliation name (if member of business or organization), phone number, reason this person should be the person of the year, nominator's name, address and phone number.

The reason for nominating should include as many points as possible to demonstrate a person's influential powers and newsworthiness during 1988.

Winners will be highlighted in the Wednesday, Feb. 8 edition of the six Associated Newspapers. A profile of each winner will be included, along with photographs.

Individuals nominated for the person-of-the-year award do not necessarily need to be affiliated with a political group, civic organization or business. Scope of the award is to honor outstanding community activists and those who have contributed much to the betterment of western Wayne County.

This is the second year for the annual contest. Last year, several residents participated and nominated community leaders and activists, friends and local heroes.

"We sponsor this contest to officially recognize some of the extraordinary works performed by residents in the communities we serve," explained Associated Newspapers Managing Editor Ray Day. "Volunteers, public servants and exemplary citizens are plentiful in this area. We believe those people are the backbone of every program we all enjoy, and we hope this award provides a small token of our gratitude and a mandate for these residents to continue their efforts."

Past nominees have included state lawmakers and local politicians, policemen, educators, parents, business officials, leaders of local clubs and organizations, students and "exemplary citizens."

The person of the year will receive an engraved plaque. Runners-up receive smaller plaque-certificates. All winners will be featured in the Suburban Living section of the six Associated Newspapers.

The Associated Newspapers publishes The Wayne Eagle, The Westland Eagle, The Canton Eagle, The Belleville Enterprise, The Romulus Roman and The Inkster Ledger-Star.

Bennett believes that, by slowing growth, high-quality developments will become realities.

Lack of available landfill space is also a major concern.

"We're very close to running out of landfill space," Bennett said. "We have a prime utility, a very thick clay base. We need to be in the forefront of solid-waste management, recycling, getting our trash under control."

The road to refuse recovery, Bennett said, will not be an easy one, entailing the gradual implementation of curb-side garbage-separation ordinances and obvious changes in lifestyle.

"We're going to have to ease into it," he said. "We're talking about a major change in habits. It's not easy to change."

Inkster

If Inkster is to become a viable city, attract families and commercial development with to officials there.

"Crime — and with that I mean illegal drugs — is my number-one concern," said Patrick

O'Neil, an attorney and mayor pro tem of the Inkster City Council.

"If you can't provide for public safety and a safe community, then you aren't going to attract decent families. And, today, Inkster has a crime problem. But let me make it clear — most cities do. It's a disease, especially drugs, and we have a responsibility to find the resources to combat it."

O'Neil said he is hopeful that the 101st Congress will reactivate many of the "partnership programs" with the cities that the federal government funded to help fight crime locally.

"During the Reagan years, much of the funding was wiped out for these programs. Cities and townships just don't have the money or resources to get the job done."

Money — the lack of it for schools — tops the list of concerns expressed by educators in the Westwood and Inkster school districts.

"Last year, we watched and read how our lawmakers futilely attempted to put together a package for school-finance re-

So, our concerns for equal funding remains a concern."

"It is no secret that the majority of schools in this state are hurting. Our concerns about equal funding for all children, unfortunately, is something real. It's a now thing," he continued. "I hope — and I believe many of my colleagues will agree — that the legislators find a solution soon. After all, it's the children who are getting hurt."

Romulus

As Romulus moves toward the 21st century, city officials there see a number of challenges awaiting them.

Mayor Beverly McAnally is hoping to see added tax revenues in the city coffers. While the city is not experiencing a shortage of funds, McAnally wants to see current money used wisely and possible development projects approached with caution.

"We're going to have to continue to keep a watchful eye on spending," McAnally said.

Education is also a top concern, the mayor said.

"I see enormous challenges for schools in the future," McAnally said.

his concern list, as well.

"The most pressing challenge is school financing," Bedell said. "The district budget is in good shape now, because of the recent passage of two millage proposals. However, if state funding continues to be low, there will be problems for Romulus.

"The question is, is the state of Michigan going to meet its responsibility in school funding?" Bedell continued.

"It is obvious our world is changing. We've got to prepare our students for the year 2000," he said.

Another challenge for Romulus is solid-waste disposal, according to Romulus Councilman Jimmie Raspberry.

"What do we do after the landfills fill up?" he said.

Raspberry also listed public transportation, subsidized housing and recreation as top concerns for the city.

Wayne

Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton believes the city of Wayne will be "the best little industrial city in the state" when Ford Motor Co. officials complete the expansion of the Wayne Assembly plant and the most of their attention in 1989 on helping Ford officials complete the projects.

"The expansion of both the truck and assembly plant is on go," said City Manager Thomas Daily. "There was some talk that they would put it on hold, but everything is still on."

Wayne city officials are expecting a tax-abatement request from Ford officials for the expansion, which will include the purchase of the Wayne Drive-In by the Ford Motor Co., Daily said.

Other concerns facing Wayne officials include the implementation of a youth-assistance program, improving the retail development in the city, continuing the street-improvement project and cleanup of the Rouge River.

Westland

Westland is a city bustling with development and economic growth. An increase in residential development put the city at the top of the list for housing starts in western Wayne County.

But it's not all roses and rainbows in the city which has climbed the ladder from "Wasteland" to "Bestland." In infrastructure, a need for additional police and fire protection and a bottleneck in traffic flow, which will "drive residents crazy."

The latter two issues are both related to the pains of growth. The concern about the city infrastructure, however, is not new and will not be easily solved. It is a concern which will haunt administrators for years to come.

"The biggest concern we face for the future is the aging city infrastructure," said Westland Mayor Charles Griffin. "The road system and the catch basin have all been around for a long time."

Some improvements have been made in the infrastructure, but a much more intense plan is needed to rid the city of the problem altogether. Approximately $400,000 was poured into repair of catch basins during the past four years, but that barely made a dent in the problem, according to Griffin.

Only 14 miles of unpaved roads remain in the city, following a major city-paving program. Still, streets throughout the city are in desperate need of repair, Griffin said.

Concrete streets in the older sections of the city, such as the north end, are facing the end of their life span and will need re-

The veteran Europe-bound airlines, TWA and Pan American, are now battling with such newcomers as American Airlines, Delta, Northwest, Piedmont and Continental.

As for prices, consumers can expect a "slight" increase in travel costs this year, analysts predict. No major air-fare "price wars" are expected, although industry onlookers are awaiting the impact 100 new aircraft for Braniff airlines will have on fares.

Area agents believe that Braniff officials will be forced to cut rates in the new cities Braniff will serve — yet unannounced — and that other airlines will be forced to follow that lead.

And, despite predictions of only moderate growth for the travel industry in 1989, area travel agents are looking to the year with renewed optimism.

"I would say people are going to be more inclined to travel this year," Mena, of Westland Travel, said. "They are going to be bargain-conscious, but I think the types of people traveling is going to be expanded."

Another agent agreed.

"I think travel will grow. It certainly grew in 1988," explained Shirley Tucker, president of World Travel, in Plymouth. "The American public has gotten used to traveling."

"They are going away from two-week vacations to shorter three- or four-day vacations, and the tour companies are now coming up with the three- and four-day packages."

Reno Best little city is out of this world

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Reno. There is a reason it's called "the biggest little city in the world."

The city is more laid back than the hustle and bustle of the Las Vegas strip and offers visitors more than a mouthful of entertainment, relaxation and pizzazz, according to those who have been there again and again.

Located in the Pacific Time Zone — three hours earlier than Detroit — Reno is a haven of the same casino and stage shows that made Las Vegas a household term. However, Reno is nestled in up-state Nevada, eight hours from Las Vegas, one hour from beautiful Lake Tahoe, one hour from Carson City, one hour from the California border, five hours from San Francisco and two hours from approximately 25 ski resorts.

In Reno, the sun shines 365 day a year, according to residents. The daytime temperatures are similar to Michigan weather, although March through October is considered "the warm season," according to Bob Neugebauer, of Bob Neugebauer Travel Service, in East Detroit.

The Reno summertime high temperature peaks at approximately 85 degrees in mid-July.

The obvious spectacles of the city are the gaming tables and casinos. From high-powered action to low-key gambling for amateurs, Reno awaits everyone.

But the city is much more than a gambler's paradise. The Reno city strips offers an array of hotels and nightclubs. One of the most well known is Harrah's and the hotel Headliner Room. There, noted performers delight audiences both young and old.

A few of the personalities expected during the 1989 Headliner Room season include comedians Jay Leno, Rich Little and the Smothers Brothers and singers like Sammy Davis Jr., Tony Orlando and Dawn, Natalie Cole and Waylon Jennings.

Reno is also a city of beauty. The city has been known in history as "Fuller's Folly," "Lake's Crossing" and "End of the Track" because of its location as a distribution point. The area was once a railroad distribution hub and a main stop on stagecoach routes.

Gambling was first licensed in Nevada in 1879. After several laws that abolished and restored it, gambling was officially legalized in 1931. It was after 1931 that Reno attracted attention.

Known as the cultural center or Northern Nevada, Reno is home to several museums, a planetarium, the Reno Arch, the Reno/Tahoe Gaming Academy, the Sierra Nevada Museum of Art and Virginia Lake.

Hotels and motels catering to all lifestyles are available to the travel. The area is served by 11 airlines offering service from the Reno Cannon International Airport. The airport is located 10 minutes from the downtown strip.

It truly is "the best little city in the world."

TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS — What follows is a listing of some packages being offered to area travelers by local travel agents.

• Bob Neugebauer Travel Service, East Detroit — Three-, four- and seven-day packages, available March 2 through May. Three- and four-night packages are $399 (includes lodging at the Harrah's hotel, rated four out of five stars by Mobile, four out of five diamonds by AAA). Seven-night is $498 (includes hotel). Air travel only is $308.

Included in the package are admission to the Harrah's Headliner Showroom, cabaret show, baggage handling, breakfast daily and ground transportation. Transportation will be provided by American Trans Air, the only nonstop flight to Reno from Detroit.

Also included with all three packages is a $100 rebate in non-negotiable gambling chips or tokens for those who spend at least four hours in the gambling rooms during their trip and a $100 cash rebate for those who spend another four hours in the gaming rooms.

1989 travel to be shorter, economical

Mirror, mirror on the wall, what kind of a travel year is in store for all?

Consumer travelers and their travel agents are asking that question this month, as they analyze a 1988 filled with modest air-fare and ticket-sales increases and a new trend in the way Michigan residents rest and relax.

The year ahead will be filled with shorter trips, more use of the automobile and a return to "getting the biggest bang for the buck," according to area travel officials and industry analysts.

To travel agents, 1988 was a year of almost stagnant growth. Airline ticket sales for travel agents nationwide increased only 0.1 percent from 1987 to 1988, according to the American Society of Travel Agents. Attendance at our national parks declined slightly during 1988, as did the number of passports issued for overseas travel.

In fact, the 14-percent increase in what travel agents made in 1988 is being attributed only to airline fare increases, ASTA officials report.

Meanwhile, auto vacation travel in 1988 increased for the first time in the 1980s decade, according to ASTA.

Part of the lack of considerable growth in airline travel is being attributed to a tighter personal budget for consumers. Pleasure travelers are reducing the number of trips they take, the length of those trips and the amount of money they spend while vacationing, according to ASTA.

"Spending by consumers is not coming from current earning but, more and more, from borrowing," said ASTA officials in the December issue of ASTA Agency Management. "In contrast to the money spent for durable goods, travel outlays normally come from current income or savings."

"The higher one's debt burden, the fewer dollars available for discretionary outlays."

As new travel trends emerge, area travel agents are learning to meet the new needs of consumers. Thus, they are promoting far more "weekend getaway" trips to Toronto and a Friday-through-Monday Caribbean cruise that seems almost too good to be true to the price-conscious traveler.

"There's a lot more weekend travel now. Toronto is very popular," said Fred Mena, owner of Westland Travel. "The part of my business doing better than anything is the fact that a lot of people are going on cruises."

Industry statistics show that only 10 percent of Americans have experienced a cruise. This factor creates a curiosity appeal among travelers, Mena said. Price is also a plus.

At Westland Travel, Caribbean cruises — which include air fare to the cruise departure-site, hotel accommodations, all meals and cruise fares — starts at $550 per person for a Friday-through-Monday package and $1,200 for a seven-day trip.

But, although cruises are increasing in popularity, the trips are still not at the top of the area travel hit-list. Travel agents expect Michigan residents to opt for Florida, Mexico, Las Vegas, Hawaii and the Caribbean this year, in order of popularity.

The Michigan travel season peaks during January, February and March. Florida is still the most popular travel site during those months, thanks to "spring break," which will generally be from the last week of February to one week after Easter, according to area travel agents.

However, another 1989 vacation hot-spot could be the European terrain, as more U.S. air carriers begin service there. The increasing competition for overseas travel could create a ticket-pricing battle that will benefit consumers, according to Mena.

"European travel will be important this year. There is going to be some good prices," Mena said.

Overtime drama Win over Wayne gives Belleville title role in Wolverine 'A'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

As the saying goes, you can't change the past.

But that earlier loss by Belleville to Fordson remains a thorn in Belleville and Coach Michael Garland's side after they pulled out a big 71-68 basketball victory over Wayne Memorial in overtime Friday night.

The victory moved the Tigers into a three-way tie for first-place with Fordson and Monroe. Had the Tigers beaten the Tractors of Dearborn in that conference opener, they would be atop of the standings today - alone - looking down at the rest of the field.

"Obviously it was a big victory for us," said Garland, commenting on the victory over Wayne. "Any time you can beat a Wayne team you know you have accomplished something. They are a well-coached team."

"And please remember this thing isn't over yet. There's still the second round and, believe me, they will all be gunning for us now. That's the way it is in this league - up one week, down the next. You can't afford a letdown."

And a fourth-period letdown almost cost the Tigers the game on the home court to the Zebras of Wayne. Wayne was trailing by as much as 12 points when Wayne Coach Chuck Hen-

Obviously this is a big victory for us. It means we're right back in the hunt for the Wolverine 'A' Conference title. It also means everybody will be gunning for us.

— Michael Garland

ry decided to give Reggie Brandon the green light to open up from the three-point range.

Brandon was phenomenal as he pumped in five from outside the key and resurrected the fallen Zebras. Before the eight-minute period was over, Wayne outscored their hosts 22-10 to tie the game at 65-all.

In the extra period, Andre pointer, then brother Andre, fouled after stealing a ball, sank two free throws to clinch the game.

It was Brantley that the Wayne defense failed to stop during the first half that provided Belleville the momentum to carry the Tigers past their adversaries. The 6-6 guard tossed in 18 of his 29 points in the first two periods before Wyane caught on to him and silenced him until the crucial three-pointer.

In fact, a record-setting 17 three-point baskets were made during the 35 minutes of action.

Rumple kept the Zebras in the thick of the game with his deadlly long-range accuracy.

Romulus returns to league play

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After whipping New Boston Huron 87-53 last Tuesday in a non-conference game, Coach Dan Henry and the Eagles of Romulus will return to South Central Conference warfare.

The Eagles Friday night are scheduled to play Adrian on the opponent's floor. They'll carry a 2-1 won-lost league record into their fourth conference contest of the season.

"Adrian has an excellent team," Henry commented. "They match up with us pretty good. And the key to this game will be the boards and turnovers. The team that can control the boards and makes the fewer mistakes obviously will have the edge."

Romulus evened its overall record to .500 (5-5) at the expense of neighboring New Boston Huron. Huron managed to give the stronger and taller Eagles problems for the first two periods as guards Mike Debozy and Mike Harrison supplied the scoring power.

Debozy and Harrison came up with 38 of the Chiefs' 53 total points between them.

Romulus held a nine-point edge, 17-8, after the first eight minutes and couldn't shake the Chiefs in the second quarter as they matched the winner basket-for-basket during the second period. Coach Larry Swick's club again trailed by nine after two stanzas, 34-25.

However, Romulus put the game out of reach in the third period as Virgil Davis and Eric Lightsey sparked the winners with eight points apiece. The Eagles built up a 22-point cushion as the fourth period began, allowing Henry to substitute freely. The Chiefs lost the scoring duel 25-13 in the final period.

"I thought our second half full-court press hurt them and turned the tide," Henry said. "And our size was to our advantage."

Davis and Lightsey each had 23 points for the Eagles. They had one more point than Debozy, who connected on 10 of 12 free throws and six field goals. Harrison added 16 for the Chiefs, a feat equalled by Romulus' Diya Muhammed, who made eight field goals.

Huron picked up 17 (of 23) of its points from the free throw line, while the Eagles made four of 14.

Romulus was scheduled to play out-of-league opponent, Taylor Truman, last night on the home court.

Tiger tankers beat the champ

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Since 1983 when the Wolverine 'A' Conference came off the drawing boards and became a reality, Monroe has dominated swim competition in the league.

The Trojans have won the past six successive championships and were the preseason favorites to retain the title for the 1988-89 season.

But the champ is in jeopardy of losing its crown. Monroe has dropped two key meets - to Wayne Memorial and Belleville, and unless it can rally its troops for the league meet, it will have to surrender the crown to either Wayne or Belleville.

Belleville Coach Bill Snider is elated by the victory, but won't speculate about the future. "We haven't beaten them in the league until last Thursday," Snider said, "and, of course, we're elated. But anything can happen down the stretch. We'll just continue to work hard and wait and see."

Belleville, behind outstanding performances by senior Eric Snider and Brian Bogardus, was the latest to hand Monroe an image-shattering setback. Both Snider and Bogardus posted double victories to spark the Tigers to a 45-38 triumph over the Trojans. Moreover, it was the first time since the organization of the league that Belleville had beaten Monroe's swimmers.

"Not only did we swim well against them," said Belleville Coach Bill Snider, "but I felt this meet brought us together as a team."

The victories provided the Tigers with their third straight league triumph in as many starts. It was their fifth win overall in seven outings.

From the starting gun to the final seconds, it was a thrilling meet with Monroe. The Tigers jumped out in front by winning the medley relay thanks to Bogardus, Scott Overholt, Joe Bon-

Robichaud edges Inkster, 76-74

By TOM MOORADIAN

Coach George Thompson Jr. and the Vikings of Inkster will probably soon forget their easy 92-59 basketball victory over River Rouge Friday night.

Likewise, Coach Monte Dennard and his Bulldogs of Robichaud won't ponder long on their 85-72 triumph over the Red Raiders of Ecorse.

But neither coach or team will probably forget last Tuesday night's cliffhanging come-from-behind 76-74 victory Robichaud claimed over Inkster.

It was a game that could have been written by a Hollywood writer filled with drama, heroes, and fall guys right up to the final whistle.

"I am not upset, but I am disappointed by the loss," Thompson said after the duel waged before a standing room only crowd at Robichaud. "We committed nine turnovers in the fourth period and that opened the door for their comeback."

"And we blew a 13-point lead - so you know we had an opportunity to win. That's where the disappointment comes in. However, this is a junior club and they are going to make mistakes. I can't be upset with them."

Dennard also had mixed feelings about the victory.

"Sure I am elated that we won, but we didn't play ball for three quarters and if you don't play 32 minutes you're going to be in big trouble."

And Robichaud was in trouble from the beginning until late in the game when Michael Aaron came up with his barrage of baskets in the fourth quarter.

It was a strange game with the Vikings establishing the early tempo as Arthur Asberry, playing his finest game of his career, tossed in eight of his career and game-high 32 points in the first period to stake the losers to a 17-8 advantage.

Then, the Bulldogs came back and outscored their visitors 18-10 on the strength of balanced scoring which included six points from guard Eric Thomas and five from Rod James.

Inkster marched into the locker rooms with a slim 27-26 lead at halftime and when the two teams came back it was Asberry again and Gary Johnson, who paced the Vikings. Asberry fired in six and Johnson added seven to widen the Inkster advance-

Slaying witness taken into custody at game

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

There was drama on and off the basketball court at Robichaud High School last Tuesday.

On the court, Robichaud won a thrilling 76-74 overtime basketball decision from Inkster.

Off the court, Inkster police took into protective custody an eyewitness, they said, to the slaying of 23-year-old Lisa Williams who was killed last April in her home.

The witness failed to show up to testify at a circuit court trial so the judge adjourned the case until the witness could be found. He then ordered Inkster police to find the witness and bring her before him.

The witness had eluded police until Tuesday when Inkster Police Detective Richard Rashad spotted her at the basketball game and took her into custody.

Police said that Williams was killed in her home when she was struck by a bullet that penetrated the arm of her infant daughter and struck her in the chest. Police believe that the killer was gunning for Williams' boyfriend, and the victim happened to be at the wrong place at the wrong time.

Huron rallies past Jefferson, ends 7-game streak

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

There is a cliché in sports "that streaks are made to be broken."

Losing streaks, included.

And New Boston Huron, riding the crest of a seven-game losing streak, put the brakes to the skid with a 65-61 victory over conference rival Monroe Jefferson Friday night.

"It was close all the way," said Huron Coach Larry Swick. "We needed every extra effort that we could get, and we got it. And that, I believe, was the difference in this game."

Although the Chiefs had a break from the action last night, they will have the dubious honor of meeting undefeated Gibraltar Carlson Friday for their next conference game. Carlson is ranked among the top 10 Class B teams in the state this season.

"They have an exceptional team this year," Swick noted. "Obviously we are going to have to play exceptionally well to stay on the same floor with them."

The Chiefs will take a 1-4 league and 2-8 overall record to Carlson.

Huron played catch up with

Jefferson most of the night and until Mike Debozy and Jason Zavodsky sank four clutch free throws in the waning seconds of the last period, it looked as if Jefferson was going to extend the Chiefs' losing streak.

Monroe led by the narrowest of margins after the first period (13-12) and stayed out in front 30-17 for two periods. However, guards Mike Harrison and Debozy led a third period Chief assault that lifted the winners to a 44-42 advantage, setting the stage for the final eight minutes.

With 50 seconds left in the game, Debozy was awarded a pair of free throws and sank both of them to break a 61-all tie. Then, Zavodsky came with a key rebound and was fouled in the process. The Huron cager stepped to the line with less than 30 seconds left and sank both ends of a one-and-one, sealing the victory for the Chiefs.

Harrison again was on target for the winners. He pumped in eight field goals, including two three-pointers and canned seven of nine at the free throw line for a game high 25 points. Teammates Debozy and Craig Poet chipped in with 17 and 13 points, respectively, for the Chiefs, who managed to sink 22 of 30 free throws.

Jefferson received a superlative effort out of Ken Mullins, who was phenomenal from the three-point distance. He connected on six of them and picked up three other field goals for a team high 24 points.

Poet, who played his best game of the season, collected 10 of his 13 points in the second half. He also had 13 rebounds, nine of those were from the defensive boards.

"I felt that Craig played his best half of his career," Swick said.

With Mike Braswell providing the sparkle, Belleville wrestlers finished third at the 15-team Lincoln Park Wrestling Invitational staged over the weekend.

Braswell carved out a 9-4 victory over Southgate Aquinas' Brad Labadie to emerge from the mats with the gold medal in the 160-pound class. He was the only member of Coach Gerald Malecek's club to come away from the downriver community with a first-place medal.

Aquinas surfaced as the best tournament team in the field as the champs piled up 199.5 points. Trailing the champs in the final team standings were Trenton (145), Belleville (128.5), North Farmington (124), Milford (122), Lincoln Park (121), Grosse Ile (113), Ypsilanti Lincoln (95), Livonia Churchill (84), Wayne Memorial (79), Holly (74.5), Royal Oak Kimball (62.5), Livonia Franklin (44), Southfield (30), and Romulus (6).

Romulus had given its varsity lineup a rest and Coach Norm Butler had sent its junior varsity to the tournament.

The Wayne sharpshooter also finished with 29 points.

Belleville will round out the first round of conference play this week. They played Wyan-dote Roosevelt (1-5, 2-6) last night and will meet Lincoln Park on the home turf Friday. The Railsplitters sported a 2-3 conference and a 6-3 overall record as the week began.

rebounds off the offensive backboard and also chipped in five points that helped stop the Vikings.

Asberry, who had a perfect six-for-six at the free throw line to go along with his 13 field goals, topped all scorers with 32. Teammates Kevin Pingston and Terrell Brooks chipped in 15 and 14 points, respectively.

Aaron's 28 stood out as Robichaud's high, but Thomas was also in double scoring figures with 20 and Wheatley finished with 10. Both teams had ample opportunities at the free throw line: Inkster canned 17 of 23 as compared to Robichaud's 16 of 28.

Inkster wasted little time with River Rouge Friday night as the Vikings jumped to a 23-12 first period lead. Johnson scored six of his 24 points in that stanza. The Vikings built up a 45-28 lead before coasting to a 92-59 victory.

Pingston led all scorers with 27, while Johnson finished with 24 and Tyrone Orr counted 10.

In the meantime, Robichaud rode Aaron's 38 points to an 85-72 victory over Ecorse. Thomas again played an outstanding all-around game and contributed 22 points and Mike Hart finished with 16.

After playing Willow Run Tuesday night, Inkster has Friday night off. However, Robichaud has a "must meeting" with league leading Highland Park, which is riding the crest of a 5-0 league record. The Dearborn Heights cagers, losers to Willow Run in overtime in the SAC opener, can't afford to lose to the Parkers if they giorno and Duane Townsend who posted the winning time of 1:49.06.

Snider was clocked in 22.68 to claim the 50-yard freestyle. The 18-year-old senior's time also qualified him for the state finals. He duplicated his efforts in the 100-yard freestyle, covering the distance in 49.31, also a state-qualifying time.

Bogardus proved to be the best in the 100-yard butterfly as he touched in with a 58.90. He also was the winner in the 100-yard backstroke (59.24).

Belleville diver Corey Frost stashed that event into the Tiger victory column when he piled up 217 points.

Belleville wrapped up its history-making meet by also beating the Trojans in the 400-yard freestyle relay as Bongiorno, Doug Duff, Mike Bird and Snider combined on a 3:31.70 finish.

In their out-of-conference encounter with Plymouth Canton last Tuesday, the Tigers came out on the short end of a 102-70 decision. Snider again provided the Tigers with two of their four first places, beating highly-regarded Canton swimmer, Joe Homan, to the finish line of the 200-yard individual medley. Snider's first-place time was recorded as 2:07.17. Homan posted a 2:07.93.

The Belleville swimmer returned to the pool and swam a 50.4 to win the 100-yard freestyle.

Bogardus accounted for the only other individual event winner as he hit the wall in the 100-yard backstroke in 59.4.

Belleville ended the meet with a victory in the 400-yard freestyle relay as Bongiorno, Bird, Duff and Snider turned in a 3:34.7.

On Friday, January 13, at approximately 5:15 pm I was driving down Inkster Road at Westland when a gray box of cat pet took off the back of my truck. When I turned around to pick them up, I saw a man in an older blue Chevy van pick them up and drive off. I then followed him down Inkster Road but lost him near Ecorse. I did get his tag number though. These tools are very important to me since they are the backbone of my career. If these tools are not returned to me or I am not notified within 48 hours, I will take the tag number to the police to get my tools back. Call with info, 292-3836.

BUICK

AUTO SHOW CLEARANCE

BUICK

Reatta

It takes a special breed of car to command the Great American Road. The 1989 Buick Reatta is a royal part of that breed. Reatta is sporty. Reatta is powerful. Reatta is luxurious. Reatta is, above all, a Buick. An exacting attention to detail has created a car that seems like a step into America's past. Reatta is quality, not quantity. Unlike a traditional assembly line, which moves at its own relentless pace, a computer-controlled Automatic Guided Vehicle moves the Reatta body and chassis to each craft station, where it is joined with the appropriate componentry. The Guided Vehicle moves to the next craft station only after the workers decide that their portion of the assembly process is finished according to demanding specifications. That is why the body surface of each Reatta is prepared by hand before paint is applied. Hand-buffing of the final clearcoat ensures a depth of lustre that is truly remarkable. Power. Performance. Luxury. Style. That's the 1989 Buick Reatta, a motorcar of uncommon practicality.
